Chauncey Crandall MD--Among the Most-Viewed Yale-Trained Physicians in the Nation

Palm Beach, Florida – 4/4/2026 - In a medical community as accomplished and competitive as those who trained at Yale-New Haven Medical Center, standing out is no small feat. That is precisely what makes Dr. Chauncey Crandall IV, M.D., F.A.C.C.'s recognition on Doximity so remarkable.

Doximity is the leading digital platform for U.S. medical professionals, with more than 3 million members, including over 85% of physicians in the country. To be ranked among the most-viewed Yale-New Haven-trained physicians on this platform — drawing views from U.S. News profiles, public profiles, and Doximity users across the medical community — is a testament not merely to visibility, but to sustained national relevance and respect within the profession.

Doximity's most-viewed rankings are based on a variety of sources, including U.S. News profile views, public profile views, and Doximity user views — meaning the more a physician's profile is viewed, the more the medical community becomes familiar with them and their work. That Dr. Crandall consistently attracts this level of attention speaks volumes.

The reasons are not hard to find. Dr. Crandall has performed over 40,000 heart procedures during his career and currently practices concierge medicine and cardiology, with past post-graduate training at Yale University School of Medicine, where he also completed three years of research in the Cardiovascular Surgery Division. He has been in practice for 34 years and continues to publish his international Heart Health Report newsletter, which reaches over 2 million readers.

His books have been translated into 12 different languages, and his appearances on national television have made him one of the most publicly recognized cardiologists in America. Beyond clinical practice, he serves as Chairman of the Chadwick Foundation, devoting extensive time to missionary-based medicine and education in Africa, South America, Europe, and Haiti.

When Doximity's data reflects that physicians and the broader medical community are actively seeking out Dr. Crandall's profile, it confirms what his patients and peers have long known: he is not simply a well-credentialed doctor — he is one of the most consequential cardiologists of his generation. Being ranked among the most-viewed Yale-trained physicians nationally is an honor he has more than earned.
